Overview: Employee Privacy

Safeguarding Employee Privacy

The Honeywell HR Direct system contains the personal data of Honeywell employees. In many jurisdictions around the world, Honeywell is subject to privacy laws that strictly limit its use and disclosure. To ensure compliance with these laws and with Honeywell policy, do not share personal data from the HR Direct system with anyone who does not need it for a legitimate business purpose. Also, do not share the data with anyone who would not otherwise have access to that HR Direct data. In addition, do not leave personal data from the HR Direct system visible on your computer screen when you are away from your desk, or leave print-outs of personal data where others can see them. If you export data from the HR Direct system, comply with these sharing restrictions, protect the file using a password, and delete the file when you no longer need the data for the legitimate business purpose.

Privacy Notice

Please also be aware that we will collect personal data from you regarding your use of HR Direct. This will help us to assess whether and where more communication or additional follow-up on HR Direct is necessary.
